

INCASA ONLINE LTTA: PREPARING FOR THE REAL-LIFE EXPERIENCE

As part of the InCASA project, an online Learning, Teaching and Training Activity (LTTA) took place, bringing together partners and participants to prepare for the upcoming real-life Camino experience.

This session played a key role in equipping participants with the knowledge and tools needed for the journey. It included guidance on safety, accessibility and the use of the Compass Web App, as well as access to the Journey Blueprint platform, supporting participants in planning and preparing for the Camino.

The LTTA also created space for discussion and exchange, allowing participants to better understand the project's objectives and their role in testing inclusive approaches in real conditions.

Participants interested in continuing their learning journey can access the online training course available through the project platform:

INCASA FEATURED ON RTP1

The InCaSa project gained national visibility after being featured on Portuguese television channel RTP1, highlighting the importance of creating a more inclusive and accessible Camino de Santiago.

The report showcased the real-life experience of participants and the project's efforts to break barriers, demonstrating how accessibility can be integrated into outdoor and cultural experiences.

This recognition reinforced the project's impact and helped raise awareness among a wider audience about inclusion in the Camino.

THE INCASA WEB APP

A key result of the project is the development of the InCaSa web app, designed to support users in planning and experiencing the Camino de Santiago in a more accessible way.

The app provides practical information, guidance and resources, helping users better prepare their journey according to their needs.

By combining accessibility and digital tools, the app represents an important step towards making the Camino more inclusive for everyone.
